General Introduction

Love of fame, the desire to enlarge their dominion, eager to sway the sceptre over subjugated nations, influenced the ancient Germans, Swiss and French to leave their hearths, and to achieve conquests, thus proving themselves, in days of yore, as in the middle ages, "Herren der Welt," Lords of the World.

At different periods, various causes and diverse motives induced them to abandon their "Vaterland." Since 1606, millions have left their homes, the dearest spots on earth, whither the heart always turns. Religious persecutions, political oppression drove thousands to Pennsylvania—to the asylum for the harassed and depressed sons and daughters of the relics of the Reformation, whither William Penn himself invited the persecuted of every creed and religious opinion.

From 1682 to 1776, Pennsylvania was the central point of emigration from Germany, France and Switzerland. Penn's liberal views and the illiberal course of the government of New York toward the Germans, induced many to come to this Province.

In the first period of twenty years, from 1682 to 1702, comparatively few Germans arrived; not above two hundred families,—they located principally at Germantown. They were nearly all "Plattdeutsch," Low Germans, from Cleves, a Duchy in Westphalia, and arrived in 1683 to 1685. Leaving their native country at that time, they providentially escaped the desolation of the French war, which in 1689 laid waste the city of Worms, near which town they resided; ravaged the countries for miles around, where the flames went up from every market place, every hamlet, every parish church, every country seat within the devoted province.

When, in the same year were laid waste, Rohrbach, Laimen, Nussloch, Wissloch, Kirchheim, Bruckhausen, Eppelnheim, Wieblingen, Edingen, Neckerhausen; and "Handschuhshheim," in the Duchy of Baden, in which, says Kayser, Johannes Schad and Ludwig Rupp were consumed in the flames.—Kayser's Schauplatz von Heidelberg, p. 505.

Francis Daniel Pastorius, born at Sommerhausen in Franconia, Germany, Sept. 26, 1651, arrived at Philadelphia in the ship America, captain, Joseph Wasey, Aug. 20, 1683 with his family. He was accompanied by a few German emigrants: Jacob Schumacher, George Wertmueller, Isaac Dilbeck, his wife and two children, Abraham and Jacob; Thomas Gasper, Conrad Bacher, alias Rutter, and an English maid, Frances Simpson. Others soon followed. Pastorius located where he laid out Germantown the same year in which he arrived in Pennsylvania. The land of the Germantown settlement was first taken up by him the 12th of the 10th month (October) 1683. He commenced the town with thirteen families. In less than five years some fifty houses had been erected.

The period from 1702-1727 marks an era in the early German emigration. Between forty and fifty thousand left their native country—"their hearths where soft affections dwell." The unparalleled ravages and desolations by the troops of Louis XIV., under Turenne, were the stern preludes to bloody persecutions. To escape the dreadful sufferings awaiting them, German and other Protestants emigrated to the English colonies in America.

In 1705, a number of German Reformed, residing between Wolfenbüttel and Halberstadt, fled to Neuwild a town of Rhenish Prussia, where they remained some time, and then went to Holland—there embarked in 1707 for New York. Their frail ship was, by reason of adverse winds, carried into the Delaware Bay. Determined, however, to reach the place for which they were destined—to have a home among the Dutch, they took the overland route from Philadelphia to New York. On entering the fertile, charming valley in “Nova Caesaria,” New Jersey, which is drained by the meandering “Musconetcong,” the Passaic, and their tributaries, and having reached a goodly land, they resolved to remain in what is now known as the German Valley of Morrison County. From this point, the Germans have spread into Somerset, Bergen and Essex Counties.

At Elizabethtown, where the first English settlement was made in New Jersey, 1664, there were many Germans prior to 1730. There was also a German settlement at a place known as Hall Mill, which is some thirty miles from Philadelphia. The Rev. Michael Schlatter preached here in 1746. Magazine of the German Reformed Church II p. 266.

In 1708 and 1709, thirty-three thousand souls of Queen Anne, left their homes in the Rhine Country for London, where from twelve to thirteen thousand arrived in the summer of 1708. There were books and papers dispersed in the Palatinate, with the Queen's picture on the books, and the title page in letters of gold, which on that account, were called, "The Golden Book," to encourage the Palatines to come to England, in order to be sent to the Carolinas or to other of Her Majesty's colonies, to be settled there. Journal of the House of Commons, England, XVI., p. 467, 468.

These were for some time, in a destitute condition, wholly depending upon the charity of the inhabitants of the English metropolis.

In the fall of 1709, one hundred and fifty families, consisting of six hundred and fifty Palatines, were transported under the tutelar auspices of Christian De Graffenried and Ludwig Michell, natives of Switzerland, to North Carolina. As in all new countries, the Palatines were exposed to trials, privations, and hardships incident to border life. One hundred of them were massacred by the Tuskarora Indians, Sept. 22, 1711. The anniversary of this massacre was solemnized for many years as a day of fasting and prayer.—Williamson's N. C. I. p. 193, 194.

Of the large number that came to England and were transported to America in 1708 and 1709, seven thousand, after having suffered great privations, returned, half naked and in despondency to their native country. Ten thousand died for want of sustenance, medical attention and other causes.

Ten sails of vessels were freighted with upwards of four thousand Germans for New York. They departed the 25th of December, 1709; and after a six month's tedious voyage reached New York in June, 1710. On or during their voyage and immediately on landing, seventeen hundred died. The survivors were encamped in tents, they had brought with them from England, on Nutting, now Governor's Island. Here they remained till late in autumn, when about fourteen hundred were removed, one hundred miles up the Hudson river to Livingston Manor. The widowed women, sickly men and orphan-children remained in New York. "List of names can be found in Pa. Archives." The Orphans were apprenticed by Governor Hunter, to citizens of New York and New Jersey. Those settled on the Hudson River were under indenture to serve Queen Anne as grateful subjects, to manufacture tar and raise hemp, in order to repay the expenses of their transportation, and cost of subsistence, to the amount of ten thousand pounds sterling, which had been advanced by Parliamentary grant. To supply the naval stores from this arrangement, had been confidently expected or anticipated, but the experiment proved a complete failure. The Germans, being unjustly oppressed became dissatisfied both with their treatment, and situation. Governor Hunter resorted to violent measures to secure obedience to his demands. In this, too, he failed. One hundred and fifty families, to escape the certainty of starvation, left, late in the autumn of 1712 for Schoharie Valley, some sixty miles north-west of Livingston Manor. They had no open road, no horses to carry or haul their luggage—this they loaded on rudely-constructed sleds, and tugged these themselves, through a three-foot deep snow, which greatly obstructed their progress—their way was through an unbroken forest, where and when the wind was howling its dirge through leaf-stripped trees, amid falling snow. It took them three full weeks. Having reached Schoharie, they made improvements upon the lands, Queen Anne had granted them. Here they remained about ten years, when, owing to some defect in their titles, they were deprived of both lands and improvements. In the Spring of 1723, thirty-three families removed and settled in Pennsylvania, in Tulpehocken, some fifteen miles west of Reading. A few years afterwards, others followed them. The following is a list of the members of the German Reformed Church, between 1735 and 1755. Johannes Bassler, Jonas LaRu, Johan G. Zoller, Wilhelm Hoster, Hartman Zöller, Friedrich Klopp, George Huber, Johan Thomas, Michael Spengler, Johannes Petrus, Nicholas Gelbert, Johannes Zollner, Jacob Itzberger, Nicklaus Müller, Johannes Müller, Peter Becker, Peter Loch, Jonas Fortuny, Johannes Lein, Johan Adam Stein, Jacob Dinges, Christian Orndorff, Jacob Simon, Michael Gunkel, Jacob Keller, Johan Jacob Müller, Peter Summois, George Dollinger, Johan Wilhelm Hoster, Abraham Lebbo, Peter Spycker, John Adam Forne, Henrich Marsteller, Jacob Rammler, Johannes Reiff, Wilhelm Lutner, Johan Georg Stahlschmidt, Nicklaus Simon, Michael Kor, Peter Mayer, Jacob Rossel, Johan Heinrich, Herchelroth, Jacob Seifert, Johan Diehm, Henrich Koppenhöffer, Conrad Hartman, Henrich Ludwig, Daniel Maurshagen, Johan Peter Pappel, Isaac Mayer, Joh. May 10, 1728, inhabitants of Colebrook Dale petitioned Governor Gordon, praying for relief against what they suffered, and were likely to suffer, from the Indians, who had fallen upon the back inhabitants about Falkner's, Schwamm and Goshenhoppen, Penna.

Arch. I. P. 213.

The other dissatisfied Germans at Schoharie, who did not choose to follow their friends to Pennsylvania, sought for and found a future home on the frontiers in the Mohawk Valley.

New York was, at an early day, an asylum for the French Protestants, or Huguenots, "as they were called." As early as 1656 they were already numerous in that state; ranking in number and wealth next to the Dutch. New Rochelle, situated near the shore of Long Island Sound was settled solely by the Huguenots from Rochelle in France. The emigrants purchased of John Pell 6000 acres of land. One venerable Huguenot, it is related, would go daily to the shore, when, directing his eyes towards (the direction) where he supposed France was situated, would sing one of the Marot's hymns, and send to heaven his early morning devotions. Others joined him in the praises of their God, and remembrances of their beloved native clime, from which they had been banished by the merciless fires of persecution.—Weiss' History of French. Ref. II. P. 304.

Governor Keith, says the record, "observed by the Board—the Governor's Council—that great numbers of foreigners from Germany, strangers to our language and constitution, having lately been imported into this Province, daily disperse themselves immediately after landing, without producing certificates, from whence they came or what they are, and as they seemed to have first landed in Britain, and afterwards to have left without any license from government, or as far as they know, so in the same manner, they have behaved here, without making the least application to him or any of the magistrates. That, as this practice might be of very dangerous consequence, since, by the same method any number of foreigners, from any nation whatever, enemies as well as friends might throw themselves upon us." This was in 1717, and this observation by Governor Keith led to the adoption of a measure which has prevented the loss of the names of upwards of thirty thousand of the first German immigrants to Pennsylvania. His jealousy of the Germans at this time, though he afterwards espoused their cause heartily, has been overruled to preserve the memory of the oppressed and persecuted.—Col. Rec. III. pp. 29, 228.

After 1716 Germans, a few French and Dutch, began to penetrate the forests or wilderness—some twenty, thirty, some forty, others from sixty to seventy miles, west and north from Philadelphia. Large German and French settlements sprung up at different points within the present limits of Montgomery and Berks Counties. At Goshenhoppen there was a German Reformed Church, organized as early as 1717. Also some Mennonites coming from the Netherlands. settled along the Pakihmomink (Perkioming, meaning at the Cranberry place) and Schkipeck (Skoppack, meaning stinking pool of water) a few years later. Germans and French located on the then fertile lands of Wahlunk (Oley, by interpretation, a cavern, cell, also a tract of land, encompassed by hills). Here an opening was made for others—persecuted Huguenots. Amongst the prominent families in Oley were the Turcks or De-Turks, Bertolets, Berdos, De la Plaines, Delangs, Loras, Levans, Yoder, Keim, Herbein, Schaub, Engel, Weidner, Schneider, and Alstadt. (Abraham DeTurk of Oley, in a note written to I. D. Rupp, Phila., March 1844 says: "My ancestors, Isaac Turck and De Turck by name, lived in France. They were of the so-called Huguenots, on account of which they were obliged to flee to the city of Frankenthal in the Palatinate. Thence they emigrated to America, and at the time of Queen Anne, they settled in New York in the neighborhood of Esopus. They moved to Oley in 1712. The patent of my land is dated 1712.—(His. Berks Co. P. 88).

Among the early settlers of Alsace or Elsass township, Berks County, were many French Reformed or Huguenots; also Swedes who were Lutherans.

"Tradition has it, that the Huguenots, German Reformed and Lutherans held religious meetings within a mile of Reading, and in conformity with the good custom of their fathers in Europe, conducted their worship in the evening as well as during the day."—(Bucher).

The Germans were principally farmers. They depended upon themselves and not upon others.

They cleared the forests by wielding the axe, the beetle, and the wedge, untiringly until the forests were changed into arable fields. They were those of whom Governor Thomas said in 1738: "This Province has been for some years the asylum of the distressed Protestants of the Palatinate, and other parts of Germany; and I believe it may truthfully be said, that the present flourishing condition of it is in a great measure owing to the industry of these people; it is not altogether the fertility of the soil but the number and industry of the people, that makes a country flourish." (Col. Rec. IV. 315).

In 1719 some twenty families of Schwartzenu-Täufer arrived in Philadelphia. Some settled at Germantown, others located on the Skippack, in Oley, at Conestoga and Mülbach, Lancaster County.

In the spring of 1734, some Lutherans, known in history as Saltzburger, from Salzburg, a city of Upper Austria, arrived in Georgia, as they were driven from their country and homes on account of their attachment and loyalty to the principles of the Gospel, as Europe had bloody persecutions; but the accessions they received from the German colony from time to time, until they reached several hundred families prior to 1745. They however made no permanent settlement in Georgia, for when the Spanish war broke out, they removed almost to a man, to the state of Pennsylvania, as it was contrary to their religious faith to take up arms in any cause. As early as 1738, some arrived in Pennsylvania and located at Bethlehem. But before the Moravians came to Pennsylvania, a number of Schwenkfelders had arrived, settled in Bucks and Philadelphia County, now Montgomery, Berks and Lehigh. Georgia was their intended location but changed their minds and established themselves in Pennsylvania, the "asylum for the oppressed."

Germans, Swiss, Dutch and French formed a large portion of the first settlers in Pennsylvania. Between forty and fifty thousand names of these immigrants are to be found in the Records of the State,—in land warrants, Acts of naturalization, and in lists of imported foreigners.

At a meeting of the Board of the Provincial Council, held at the Court House, in Philadelphia, Sept. 21, 1727, one hundred and nine Palatines appeared, who with their families, numbered about four hundred persons. (Immigrants were usually qualified at the Court House, only occasionally elsewhere, i. e. October 15, 1766, they qualified at the dwelling house of John Lawrence, Mayor of Philadelphia, January 13, 1767, and October 6, 1767, at the office of Thomas Willing, Esq., December 8, 1773, at the house of Peter Miller, Esq., in Philadelphia.)

These were imported into the province in the ship William and Sarah, William Hill, Master from Rotterdam, last from Dover, England, as by clearance from the officers of His Majesty's customs there. The said Master being asked if he had any license from the Court of Great Britain for transporting those people, and what their intentions were in coming hither, said that he had no license or allowance for their transportation other than the above clearance and that he believed they designed to settle in this Province.—(Col. Rec. III. 283).

All male persons above the age of sixteen did repeat and subscribe their names or made their mark to the following Declaration: "We subscribers, natives and late inhabitants of the Palatinate upon the Rhine and places adjacent, having transported ourselves and families into this Province of Pennsylvania, a colony subject to the crown of Great Britain, in hopes and expectation of finding a retreat and peaceable settlement therein. Do solemnly promise and engage, that we will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His present Majesty, King George the Second, and His Successor, Kings of Great Britain, and will be faithful to the proprietor of this Province; and that we will demean ourselves peaceably to all His said Majesty's subjects and strictly observe and conform to the Laws of England and of this Province to the utmost of our power and the best of our understanding."

"In the year 1729, Conrad Weiser left Schoharie with his wife and five children; Philip, Frederick, Anna, Madlina, and Maria, settled near the present site of Womelsdorf, Berks County. He died July 13, 1760, aged 63 years, 8 months and 13 days. His remains rest near Womelsdorf. ("Rupp's Hist. Berks Co. pp. 195, 222.)

Here is a remarkable record in the Ger. Ref. Almanac p. 22 for 1865, as follows:

"While the Synod of South Holland was in session in Dort, 1731, eight hundred exiled Palatines passed through the place to take ship at Rotterdam for America. They were visited by the whole Synod in a body and were furnished by them with provisions and medicines. After Christian exhortation, prayer and singing, they were dismissed with the assurance that they might rely upon the Church of Holland for support in their new abode."

Denis Kundors, or Conrad-Pastorius had had an interview with Conrad at Crefelt, Apl. 12, 1683, on his way to America. The first religious meeting by Quakers or Friends was held at Conrad's house, Germantown, 1683.—(Proud's Penn. I. p. 220).

Arent Klincken came from Holland with William Penn, in his first voyage, 1682. He become acquainted with Penn in Holland. Klincken built the first two-story house in Germantown; Penn was present, and partook of the raising dinner. The same old house stood, 1855, on Justus Johnson's premises. Klincken died at the age of eighty, and left a son whose name was Anthony Klincken, "the great hunter."—(Watson's Annals, II. p. 20).

From 1735, settlements in Pennsylvania multiplied rapidly; extending over vast regions, west of the "Saosquahanaunk." (Susquehanna) i. e. Long Crooked River wither the Scotch-Irish had led the way. The German settlement kept pace with the natives.

The Schuylkill Valley, Susquehanna Valley, as well as the Maxatawny Valley was occupied by the German and French prior to 1765 and the Cumberland Valley was an insurmountable barrier and in fact from the Delaware westward was laid out in farms, "where shortly afterwards they, their wives, and children were exposed to the torch, hatchet and scalping knife of the savages, and their midnight assault and slaughter. Hundreds fell victims to the relentlessly cruel savage, along the Blue Mountains, south and north of them and along the Susquehanna, as far north as Penn's Creek, from 1751 to 1763, and even at a later period. Among the massacred were many Germans more than three hundred in all.

Germans massacred, north of the Blue Mountains, County of Monroe, among others, were: Guldin, Höth, or Huth, Bömper, Vanaken, Vanflör, Schnell, Hartman, Hage, Brundich, Hellman, Gonderman, Schleich, Müller, Vandelay, Decker, Van Gondie, Brinker, South and North of the same mountain, within the present limits of Northampton, Carbon and Lehigh—more than one hundred were killed. Among them were: Sohn, Klein, Bittenbender, Roth, Schäffer, Anders, Nitschman, Senseman, Gattermyer, Fabricius, Schweigert, Leslie, Presser, Depu. Along the same mountain, within the limits of Berks, Lebanon, and Dauphin Counties—Reichelsdörfer, Gerhart, Neidung, Klug or Kluck, Linderman, Schott, Kraushar, Zeissloff, Wüinch, Dieppel, Henly, Spitler, Nöcker, Maurer, Bäsher, Fell, Kuhlmer, Lang, Trump, Yäger, Sechler, Schetterly, Sauter, Geiger, Ditzler.

JoHan Nicholas Saul—Genealogy

JoHan Leonard Saul—Genealogy

JoHan Christian Saul—Genealogy

In this brief genealogical record of JoHan Nicholas, JoHan Leonard, JoHan Christian Saul and their descendants I have endeavored to give as complete a record as was obtainable at this late day, sparing no expense, time or patience in my researches and only regretting that they are not as complete as I would like to have them especially of the first and second generations. However, I give such facts and records, as I have been enabled to obtain from the records that were kept at that time.

A brief history of the cause of emigration to America, and other facts of interest, I have already enumerated.

The greater portion of the records of the first and second generations were obtained from the records of Berks, Montgomery, Philadelphia and Dauphin Counties.

The compiler has been seeking these dates for the past thirty-five years by frequent trips to the counties before mentioned. By church records I was enabled to verify these already obtained. That they came from German and French descent, my researches have proven, that they left their "Vaterland" is a matter handed down to us by tradition in history. In the early part of the eighteenth century the whole of Europe was convulsed by religious wars and persecutions, and Germany was the center and battlefield of the strife. This unceasing warfare caused many an aching heart to yearn after a place of peace and repose, where, in obedience to the dictates of conscience, the Almighty might be worshipped without an interposition by man between man and his Creator. There was also a desire to secure an abiding place where comfortable homes could be obtained and where persevering toil would gain a moderate competence for old age, and also provide greater advantages for a growing family. Previously to this time the founder of Pennsylvania, on account of his religious opinions, suffered much in this way; and in order to escape persecutions and to establish a refuge for the oppressed of all denominations he turned his eyes towards the Western World, established a Colony in Pennsylvania and invited the oppressed to join him there. This and other causes were the main reasons for the thousands to emigrate to the Western World between the years of 1702 and 1775 and the greater portion of them settling in Pennsylvania.

The Schuylkill Valley, the Maxatawny Valley and the Susquehanna Valley where Johan Nicholas Saul, Johan Leonard Saul and Johan Christian Saul made their homes was at that time considered the most fertile and productive valleys in Eastern Pennsylvania which was the cause of so many Germans settling there shortly after Penn's new purchase from the Indians in the year 1732.

The Montgomery History of Berks County gives the following viz: One Samuel Saul signed a petition for the formation of a township in Philadelphia County in 1720 A. D. and this was afterward organized and called Oley Township which is in Berks County eleven miles South East of Reading, Pa.

Johann Lenhart Saul

Lenhart Saul, and wife Margaret, were among the first to locate in this valley. The tract of land upon which he located was situated upon the main highway or turnpike leading from Fort Augusta, in Northumberland County, to Reading, and thence to Philadelphia, two miles distant from the present village of Grimsville and about twenty-two miles from Reading, Pa. Upon this place he erected the Pioneers Home. Here he resided the remainder of his life. He with his family, were attendants of Bethel Zions Evangelical Lutheran Church of Grimsville. Indians at this time were more numerous than their civilized invaders and from time to time caused those early settlers much uneasiness and alarm by their repeated murders and depredations upon their unprotected homes. Between the year 1753 and 1764 these occurrences became quite frequent. One day in the year 1760 Lenhart Saul was called away from his home on urgent business, and left his wife, Margaret, and their two sons, John and Lenhart, Jr., at home. While his wife was in the midst of her daily vocation, she heard the dreaded cry of the Indians. It was enough to make the stoudest heart quail, but she never lost her presence of mind and courage. She hastily grasped her two young sons and fled to the barn, where she secreted herself and children under a structure that had been erected for just such occasions, and which was only known to the family. The children were crying piteously all this while, being terrified by their unceremonious flight and by the hideous cry which was gradually drawing nearer; and in order that their place of refuge might not be discovered through the cries of the children, the mother was obliged to crouch over them to smother their outbursts of terror. The Indians entered the house; but finding the prey gone, continued their murderous expedition, hoping to be more successful further on. History records the fact that they were successful and a large number of homes in that township and those adjacent were made desolate by their merciless cruelty. Lenhart Saul died upon his farm at a ripe old age in June 1777, and was buried in the burial ground attached to Bethel Zion Lutheran Church. He was survived by his wife, Margaret, and sons John and Leonard. He left no will, letters of administration were granted his widow, Margaret, the 24th day of June, 1777. I have only been able to secure the records of two children of Lenhart Saul and Margaret, his wife—John and Leonard, Jr. both lived in the same township. Mrs. Simons, of Harrisburg, Pa. (nee Saul) is in possession of a pewter platter that Lenhart Saul, Sr. brought with him from Germany. It is fourteen inches in diameter and has engraved upon it, "M. I. F. S. R. D. S. 1747."

John Saul son of Lenhart and Margaret Saul was reared in Maxatawny Township, Berks Co., Pa. The records show him to have been taxed for the first time in the year 1779. He died in April, 1809. Letters of administration were granted to his son, John and Henry Poh, the 7th day of April, 1809. Leonard Saul, Son of Lenhart and Margaret Saul, was born 1768 in Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pa. After the death of his father, he succeeded to the ownership of the homestead. He erected for his use a very substantial three story stone residence upon the same place where the house originally erected by his father stood. Upon this place he continued to reside the remaining part of his life. His occupation is given as clothier and farmer. He married, first in 1784, a daughter of Jacob and Magdalene Kreigh, who died in 1787, their only issue being a daughter Elizabeth, born Jan. 14th, 1785. Married second time Margaret Sughers. They were all members of the Bethel Zion Lutheran Church of Grimsville, Pa. The old church records show them to have been regular attendants and communicants. Leonard Saul died Jan. 1833, and was buried in Bethel Zion Lutheran Church yard at Grimsville. They had the following children:

1. Elizabeth Saul, born Jan. 14, 1785. Married George Fetterman.
2. Jacob Saul, born Jan. 6, 1792. Married Catherine Smith.
3. Jonathan Saul, born June 10, 1801. Married Magdalene Rauch.
4. Rebecca Saul, born _____ Married Conrad Braucher.

My object is to trace only that branch of each generation from which we are descendants, I shall therefore only take up such members of a family from which we are directly descendants and give such records, biographical sketches of the members of the family, and facts as were obtainable from the original families. I have exhausted all known means to obtain them. The church records being so irregularly kept at that period, I was unable through that source to obtain any more definite information.

George Fetterman was born in Long Swamp Township, Berks County, Pa., Dec. 28, 1779. He received a good German education, after which he learned the trade of stone mason which occupation he followed for a few years. On July 29th, 1806, he married Elizabeth Saul, daughter of Leonard Saul, of Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pa. His wife Elizabeth Saul was born in Maxatawny Township in said county on Jan. 14, 1785, and her mother the first wife of Leonard Saul was the daughter of Jacob and Magdalene Kreigh. She died about two years after her daughter Elizabeth was born. Elizabeth Saul was a member of Bethel Zion Lutheran Church, situated at Grimsville, Greenwich Township, two miles distant from the home of Leonard Saul. The old church records show her to have been a regular attendant and also as taking her last communion previous to her marriage, Sunday morning, Oct. 12th, 1805. George Fetterman soon after his marriage in 1806 moved to Northumberland County—now Columbia County. Locating near the present village of Numedia, where he constructed his "Pioneer Home,"—a log cabin—in which they lived until 1820 when he erected a substantial three-story house, in which he lived until the time of his death, Wednesday, Sept. 5th, 1860. He reared a large family and was one of the first settlers in this vicinity. They had the following children:

1. Solomon born May 3rd, 1807.
2. Henry born Jan. 24, 1809.
3. George born Sept. 7th, 1810.
4. John born Aug. 14th, 1812.
5. Johana born Jan. 20th, 1815.
6. Jonas born Aug. 18th, 1817.
7. Reuben born Jan. 3rd, 1820.
8. Catherine born March 21st, 1822.
9. Sarah born Feb. 2nd, 1825.
10. Elizabeth born Aug. 22nd, 1827.

Thursday, April 4th, 1844, George Fetterman's wife Elizabeth, (nee Saul) died, and was buried in the Numedia Burial Ground, Numedia, Columbia County, Pa. The following is the epitaph engraved on her tomb stone.

"Elizabeth"

Wife of George Fetterman

Was born Jan. 14th, 1785 in Maxatawny, Berks County, Pa. She was baptized and confirmed a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church. Sponsors, Jacob and Magdalene Kreiger. She was married July 29th, 1806, and was blessed with twelve children—nine sons and three daughters. She died April 4th, 1844. Aged 59 years, 2 mos., 21 days.

Could a biographer more aptly set forth a life's history than is done in these few lines? Between the lines we can read of the struggles, the sorrows and joys that fell to the lot of the devoted wife and mother, whose life was that of the Christian consecrated to her life work by her consecration to God. She related many an incident to her children that had been told to her by her grand-parents of their early struggles and of the oppressions in Germany, of their being taxed until they were able only by hard work and by depriving themselves of the necessities of life to pay these taxes, until at last they became unbearable and obliged them to seek other homes, so that they could educate their children and save a little for sickness and old age. She was, with her husband, a member of the Numedia Evangelical Lutheran Church, and they were both communicants of the faith at the time of their death.
